

SEKIYOU

My favorite iris is “SEKIYOU”.

This variety represents the scene of the setting sun as it changes from orange to blue and blue to indigo.

When I first saw this variety, the beautiful scene appeared before my eyes.

The yellow part of the eye represents sunset, and the color change to dark purple toward the tip of the outer petiole represents the change of time from sunset to night, which is very beautiful.

Please remember sekiyo when you look at the sky in the evening.

Tomita Reia
Graduate School of Agriculture
Tamagawa University